

Business Analytics Report

Footwear Portfolio Insights

1. Executive Summary

This report breaks down how 24 products are performing based on customer reviews, popularity, pricing, and sales trends to find ways to make more money.

2. Key Findings

- Top Brand:

Puma Motorsport has the highest customer satisfaction with a top rating of 4.5.

- Best Category:

Casual shoes are the most consistently liked footwear type, averaging a 3.92 rating.

- Most Popular:

The Mozafia shoe is the ultimate customer favorite, racking up a massive 225 ratings.

- Highest Price:

Sandals bring in the most premium revenue, with the highest average price of 4,035.

3. Trends & Patterns

- Pricing Split:

Most of the 24 products sit in the middle-to-high price range (10 high, 9 mid, 5 low), showing a strong focus on premium buyers.

- Sales Timeline:

Order volume is incredibly flat and steady at exactly 2 orders per month from February all the way through November.

- December Drop:

In December, sales suddenly cut in half, dropping down to just 1 order.

4. Spotted Problems (Anomalies)

- The Puma Margin Trap:

Puma Motorsport is your best-reviewed brand (4.5 rating), but it is being heavily discounted. Giving big discounts on a product people already love means losing easy profit.

- The Formal Shoes Slump:

Formal shoes have the lowest average discount (24.25%) but also the lowest customer rating (2.74). Keeping prices high on a poorly liked product is making it stall on shelves.

5. Quick Recommendations

- 1. Cut Puma Discounts:

Slowly lower the discounts on Puma Motorsport. Customers love the quality and will happily pay closer to full price.

- 2. Clear Out Formal Shoes:

Run a clearance sale on formal shoes to get rid of slow-moving stock, and talk to suppliers about fixing their low quality.

- 3. Expand Sandals Lineup:

Since sandals command a high price of 4,035, introduce a few cheaper mid-tier options to capture buyers who want the style but can't afford the premium price.

4. Prep for the December Drop:

Keep inventory lean between July and November since demand is perfectly flat, and run promotional bundles in late November to clear stock before the December sales freeze.